

FRIDAY AUGUST 15 1947

India Begins New Life as Two Independent Dominions Amid Jubilation and Bloodshed

NEW DELHI.—The vast sub-continent of India, though still tormented by bloody communal conflicts, split itself in two today and jubilantly joined the world family of free nations as two new and separate dominions—Moslem Pakistan and Hindu India.

In New Delhi, Lord Mountbatten, the last viceroy of British India, who turned over the reins of authority to the Indians at the last stroke of midnight, was sworn in as the first governor-general of Hindu India—populated by most of India's 227,000,000 Hindus.

Jinnah Sworn

In Karachi, Mahomed Ali Jinnah, the spare, monocled leader to whom the new Moslem dominion chiefly owes its existence, was sworn in as governor-general of Pakistan—populated by most of India's 70,000,000 Moslems.

Mountbatten said it was an "historic moment," an "event in history."

But in the Punjab, the great northern province which is to be split between Pakistan and India, the flames of communal strife still raged. Moslems and non-Moslems—mostly Sikhs and Hindus—fought to the death and whole sections of the capital city of Lahore were ablaze.

Unofficial counts fixed the death toll there since Wednesday morning at 153 and the number of injured at 136.

Nehru Prasad Manhandled

FRIDAY AUGUST 15 1947

India Begins New Life as Two Independent Dominions Amid Jubilation and Bloodshed

NEW DELHI.—The vast sub-continent of India, though still tormented by bloody communal conflicts, split itself in two today and jubilantly joined the world family of free nations as two new and separate dominions—Moslem Pakistan and Hindu India.

In New Delhi, Lord Mountbatten, the last viceroy of British India, who turned over the reins of authority to the Indians at the last stroke of midnight, was sworn in as the first governor-general of Hindu India—populated by most of India's 227,000,000 Hindus.

Jinnah Sworn

In Karachi, Mahomed Ali Jinnah, the spare, monocled leader to whom the new Moslem dominion chiefly owes its existence, was sworn in as governor-general of Pakistan—populated by most of India's 70,000,000 Moslems.

Mountbatten said it was an "historic moment," an "event in history."

But in the Punjab, the great northern province which is to be split between Pakistan and India, the flames of communal strife still raged. Moslems and non-Moslems—mostly Sikhs and Hindus—fought to the death and whole sections of the capital city of Lahore were ablaze.

Unofficial counts fixed the death toll there since Wednesday morning at 153 and the number of injured at 136.

Nehru Prasad Manhandled

FRIDAY AUGUST 15 1947

India Begins New Life as Two Independent Dominions Amid Jubilation and Bloodshed

NEW DELHI.—The vast sub-continent of India, though still tormented by bloody communal conflicts, split itself in two today and jubilantly joined the world family of free nations as two new and separate dominions—Moslem Pakistan and Hindu India.

In New Delhi, Lord Mountbatten, the last viceroy of British India, who turned over the reins of authority to the Indians at the last stroke of midnight, was sworn in as the first governor-general of Hindu India—populated by most of India's 227,000,000 Hindus.

Jinnah Sworn

In Karachi, Mahomed Ali Jinnah, the spare, monocled leader to whom the new Moslem dominion chiefly owes its existence, was sworn in as governor-general of Pakistan—populated by most of India's 70,000,000 Moslems.

Mountbatten said it was an "historic moment," an "event in history."

But in the Punjab, the great northern province which is to be split between Pakistan and India, the flames of communal strife still raged. Moslems and non-Moslems—mostly Sikhs and Hindus—fought to the death and whole sections of the capital city of Lahore were ablaze.

Unofficial counts fixed the death toll there since Wednesday morning at 153 and the number of injured at 136.

Nehru Prasad Manhandled

'Hidden Citizens: Space, place and rights following independence in India and Pakistan'.

Prof. William Gould

University of Leeds

Dydd Iau, 19 Hydref 2017

Siambwr y Cyngor, Prif Adeilad y Celfyddydau

Thursday, 19 October 2017

Council Chamber, Main Arts Building

5.30 y/ pm

Ysgol Hanes ac Archaeoleg

School of History & Archaeology

Am ychwaneg o wybodaeth, cysylltwch â ni :

Please contact us for further information:

E-bost / E-mail: dinah.evans@bangor.ac.uk

Ffôn / Telephone: 01248 382144

